

Renaud LAILLER, Director of OQUALIM

Renaud LAILLER took up the position as Director of OQUALIM on October 1st, 2024, succeeding Céline RAVEL.

Renaud LAILLER will assume the operational management of the association. He will support and supervise the implementation of the OQUALIM's strategy, and the decisions taken by the Board of Directors.

His 25-years career within the French Agency for Food, Environmental and Occupational Health & Safety (ANSES) and particularly his role as coordinator of the French platform on health monitoring at all stages of the food chain, will be assets to ensure the strengthening and development of OQUALIM's missions for the benefit of the quality and safety of animal feed.

On this occasion, the Board of Directors of OQUALIM would like to warmly thank Céline RAVEL for her unfailing commitment and for the work accomplished during the last 9 years. Céline RAVEL contributed to make OQUALIM a recognized reference on control and certification in the animal feed sector at both French and international levels, developing mutual recognitions.

About OQUALIM

OQUALIM is an association whose aim is to provide solutions to help meet health security and animal feed quality challenges. The association coordinates the collective approach by the French animal nutrition sector in terms of quality and health safety of animal feed. It has two main objectives: health security and compliance with both public and private specifications. To achieve these objectives, it has constructed two tools: pooled self-monitoring plans and the certification of animal feed plants with the RCNA (Animal Nutrition Certification Reference).
